

The Planet

By: Maurice Lynch

Log Line: The World Wide Web is this business man's mating grounds

Jason Brim is a successful, attractive businessman living life to the fullest with his current girlfriend, Cheryl. Just when things are at the pinnacle for him, Cheryl hits him with the unthinkable all of a sudden...the break up. She leaves him hanging high and dry by breaking up with him through email. Jason takes the break up hard and falls into a deep depression for about a year. He barely talks to his closest friends, Terrence and John, anymore. Tired of seeing his best friend going through this horrible break up, Terrence introduces Jason to the famous black singles website, Black Planet.com a.k.a "The Planet".

In the beginning Jason is a little leery of internet dating but decides to give it a try. From this point on Jason meets a slew of wrong women from big and brawny to a midget who's into S & M. His friends encourage him to keep searching for what he's looking for but Jason becomes fed up with the crazy dating world until he meets a certain handicapped woman.